THE Life WITHIN

This year, let the rolling chapters of your life blossom within your home.
Give yourself permission to trust your taste and abandon convention.
Only one rule holds true: If you love something, it belongs.

“A lived-in home — one that exudes charm and personality — is at the heart of our new collection,” says Andrew Carnie, Co-President of Anthropologie. “It’s our most expressive yet, allowing you to convey yourself in entirely new and unexpected ways.”

Swaths of colour and parades of pattern adorn bold new furniture silhouettes and tableware. Lush, vivid greenery traverses wallpapers and textiles.
Budding blooms cascade over delicate inlay accents and gilt mirrors.

Life welcomes you home — embrace it.

AT FIRST GLANCE

Mirrors can be a means to an end, or a masterpiece in their own right. Part of their charm comes from their frame and shape. Though a rectangle stands the test of time, we love curvaceous, vintage-inflected silhouettes—see our beloved Swansong Mirror—and romantic finishes, like two lovebirds nestled at the bottom of a frame.

We believe in the freedom of home —
of a place where one can simply be.
There's room to thrive in a space that's airy,
among neutral shades and earthen treasures.

For inspiration, look to nature:
the curve of a stem,
or the colour of sanded wood.
Think outside, step inside.

a subtle mosaic of colour and print,
inspired by vintage, flat-woven rugs.*

TWINE DINING

A table set with mixed materials and textural layering can look just as luxurious as fine china on linen. Think organic shapes, natural elements and all-weather materials.

STAY A WHILE

Its distinctive shape is one of many reasons to love our Kennett Chair. Impossible not to recline into, its sloped back proves more than just an accent; its a design that invites the sitter to hours of lounging. Even better, its neutral upholstery and abstract pattern is the perfect accompaniment to a sun-filled conservatory or corner.

LIVE IN LINEN

Savour the layers of our new linen bedding, unhurried.
